

Public Market $24,000 from goal

Posted by: Editor December 4, 2013 in Local Community Leave a comment

More than 100 donors from Halfmoon Bay to Langdale have contributed their financial support, enthusiasm, creative talents and services towards the idea of a Public Market in Gibsons, raising $225,650 as of December 2. With only $24,350 still to be raised to reach the goal of $250,000 by the December 10 deadline set by the Town of Gibsons, the community-fueled project has acquired a special momentum.

Donors Unni and Fred Claridge of Roberts Creek believe “What is good for Gibsons is good for the Sunshine Coast.”

For more information on the project vision or levels of giving, please visit gibsonspublicmarket.com or facebook.com/gibsonspublicmarket.

All donations are being held in trust at the law offices of Russell Crum at #100-938 Gibsons Way until the goal is reached.

Submitted

Twins Andrea-Malia and Kalani Davis, age 5, hold the sunflower markers that show how donations are growing for the Gibsons Public Market. Volunteers recently installed the new barometer of giving, constructed by Tollbod Construction and donated by Vital Signs, in front of the future Market property at 789 Gower Point Road, Gibsons Landing. photo Scott Davis