Director of Planning for Town of Gibsons Resigns

Gibsons, BC - November 9, 2017 - Andre Boel, the Town's Director of Planning, has announced his resignation after accepting a new position as General Manager of Development Services at the City of Port Moody. The move will bring Andre closer to his spouse, who lives in the Vancouver area.

"I have very much liked working with Council, Town staff, applicants and community members for the past four years and would have enjoyed remaining in my position longer," said Andre. "I wish the Council and community all the best in their continued efforts toward the realization of important Town projects, such as affordable housing and others."

"On behalf of Council, I want to thank Andre for his professional guidance during a time when the Town has experienced some of its most complex development proposals and projects," said Town of Gibsons Mayor, Wayne Rowe. "His attention to detail and concise reports have been of considerable assistance to the Council in its deliberations. Andre will be hard to replace and we certainly wish him great success in his new endeavour."

Andre joined the Town of Gibsons as its Director of Planning in March 2013. His last day in that role will be on November 30th, 2017.
